

For the Romantic
Laura Mercier Zen Face Palette ($60, lauramercier.com) is stocked with garden-inspired hues, like rose pink.
Tester says: "The soft, feminine colors make me feel put together even if I'm wearing sweatpants."
 —Rachael Garner, Memphis

For the Nine-to-Fiver
 Unclutter your desk drawer with the Mary Kay Compact ($18, marykay.com), packed with office-appropriate shades, a full-size gloss and three brushes.
Tester says: "I reapply these powders throughout the day; they feel lightweight and never cakey."
 —Karina Dearwood, Brooklyn

SMALL WONDERS

Yes, you can have it all—eye, lip and cheek color—in one portable, gym-bag-friendly palette.

For the Minimalist
 The hues in Philosophy The Color of Grace Coloring Book ($39.50, philosophy.com) add a hint of tint all over. Plus, the lip gloss is infused with skin-loving ingredients, such as acai berry, shea butter and pomegranate.
Tester says: "Even if I use every shade in this palette at the same time, I don't look too made up."
 —Stacey Macha, Westfield, New Jersey

For the Gym Buff
 The shimmering shades in Sephora Color Bronze Buster-To-Go ($15, sephora.com) give dull skin an instant glow.
Tester says: "It's my new post-exercise tool for transforming my makeup."
 —Eleanor Langston, beauty director

For the Traveler
 Just a bit thicker than a credit card, Pixi Petite Palette ($16, pixi-beauty.com) is perfect for your carry-on.
Tester says: "When I'm feeling extra tired, these iridescent shades immediately brighten my face."
 —Donna Jackson, Jacksonville, North Carolina

For the Natural Girl
 The versatile mix of warm taupes and chocolates in Sonia Kashuk Spring Awakening Eye & Lip Palette ($16.99, target.com) can be worn alone or layered together for a true-to-you look.
Tester says: "The buttery-soft texture of the shadows and glosses makes them a cinch to apply in a rush."
 —Emily Ennis, Houston

Sign up to test next month's products. Go to fitnessmagazine.com and click on Join the Beauty Club!