Indian dance: its beauty is multifaceted, from the embellished clothing to the elegant movements that quite simply bring joy to the dancer and audience alike.

To immerse yourself in Indian culture, you only have to travel to Chelsea. Gilt members have the opportunity to try out either three dance classes total; a one-month all-access pass to every class the studio offers; or a big blow-out of a dance party for your friends, including a private instructor and saris for everyone.

Dhoonya caters to experienced dancers as well as "absolute beginners," so don't worry if you haven't exactly danced in a Bollywood movie. Also, with the month-long pass, you can choose dance classes as well as Dhoonya Fit, a high-energy workout class (featured on CBS's the Early Show) that can torch up to 800 calories an hour.

What's in it for you? Not only a sense of newfound fitness and confidence, but a global understanding of other cultures: Dhoonya's instructors borrow influence from Latin American, African, and Middle Eastern dance.

AT A GLANCE

Daytime Distinction

Dhoonya's professional dancers have been on Oprah! She brought them on as a surprise when Bollywood's most famous couple, Aishwarya Rai and Abhishek Bachchan, appeared on the show in 2009.

Wardrobe Basics

Dhoonya sells everything from bindis to harem pants if you have a hankering for Indian dancewear. A sari in several color choices will run you only $25.

Personal Attention

Dhoonya's dancers can be hired to teach private groups at gatherings like weddings or office events.
